

TEMPORARY FULL-TIME LIVE-OUT NIGHT MATERNITY NANNY JOB CARDIFF | RADYR | WALES | GB

Placement Period: one month

Salary: £20 - £25 gross per hour

PHS Job 3548

Perfect Household Staff is delighted to present an excellent opportunity for a professional, reliable, and experienced Maternity Nanny to join a warm and welcoming family based in the desirable village of Radyr, Cardiff, Wales. The household comprises two adult principals and their two young children, including a four-week-old newborn who requires dedicated overnight care and support. The family is seeking a dependable Maternity Nanny with proven newborn experience who can provide reassurance, expert guidance, and attentive care during this important stage. There is a railway station in the Radyr area, making commuting by public transport possible, and the family is happy to arrange transfers from the station if required. Due to the location and working hours, however, applicants with their own vehicle will find commuting considerably more convenient.

This is a temporary, live-out position working approximately four nights per week on an every-other-day rota, including one weekend night, with each shift running from 7:00 pm until 7:00 am. There is strong potential for the position to be extended beyond the initial engagement, depending on the family's ongoing requirements. Working as a Maternity Nanny within this household involves providing professional overnight care for a newborn, supporting healthy sleep routines, feeding schedules, settling techniques, and offering reassurance to parents. This role would suit an experienced Maternity Nanny who is calm, knowledgeable, discreet, and confident working independently throughout the night while maintaining clear communication with the family.

Working as a Maternity Nanny in this household involves taking full responsibility for the newborn's overnight care while ensuring the parents are able to rest with complete peace of mind. Responsibilities include feeding support, changing, settling, soothing, monitoring the baby's wellbeing throughout the night, maintaining hygiene and nursery organisation, and providing practical advice and support to the family where appropriate. The successful candidate will establish consistent newborn routines, recognise the baby's individual needs, and deliver compassionate, professional care with reliability and discretion. This is an excellent opportunity for an experienced Maternity Nanny seeking a rewarding temporary position with the possibility of a longer-term arrangement.
